

REPURPOSE

verb re·pur·pose : to give a new purpose or use to

Genesis 1:26-28

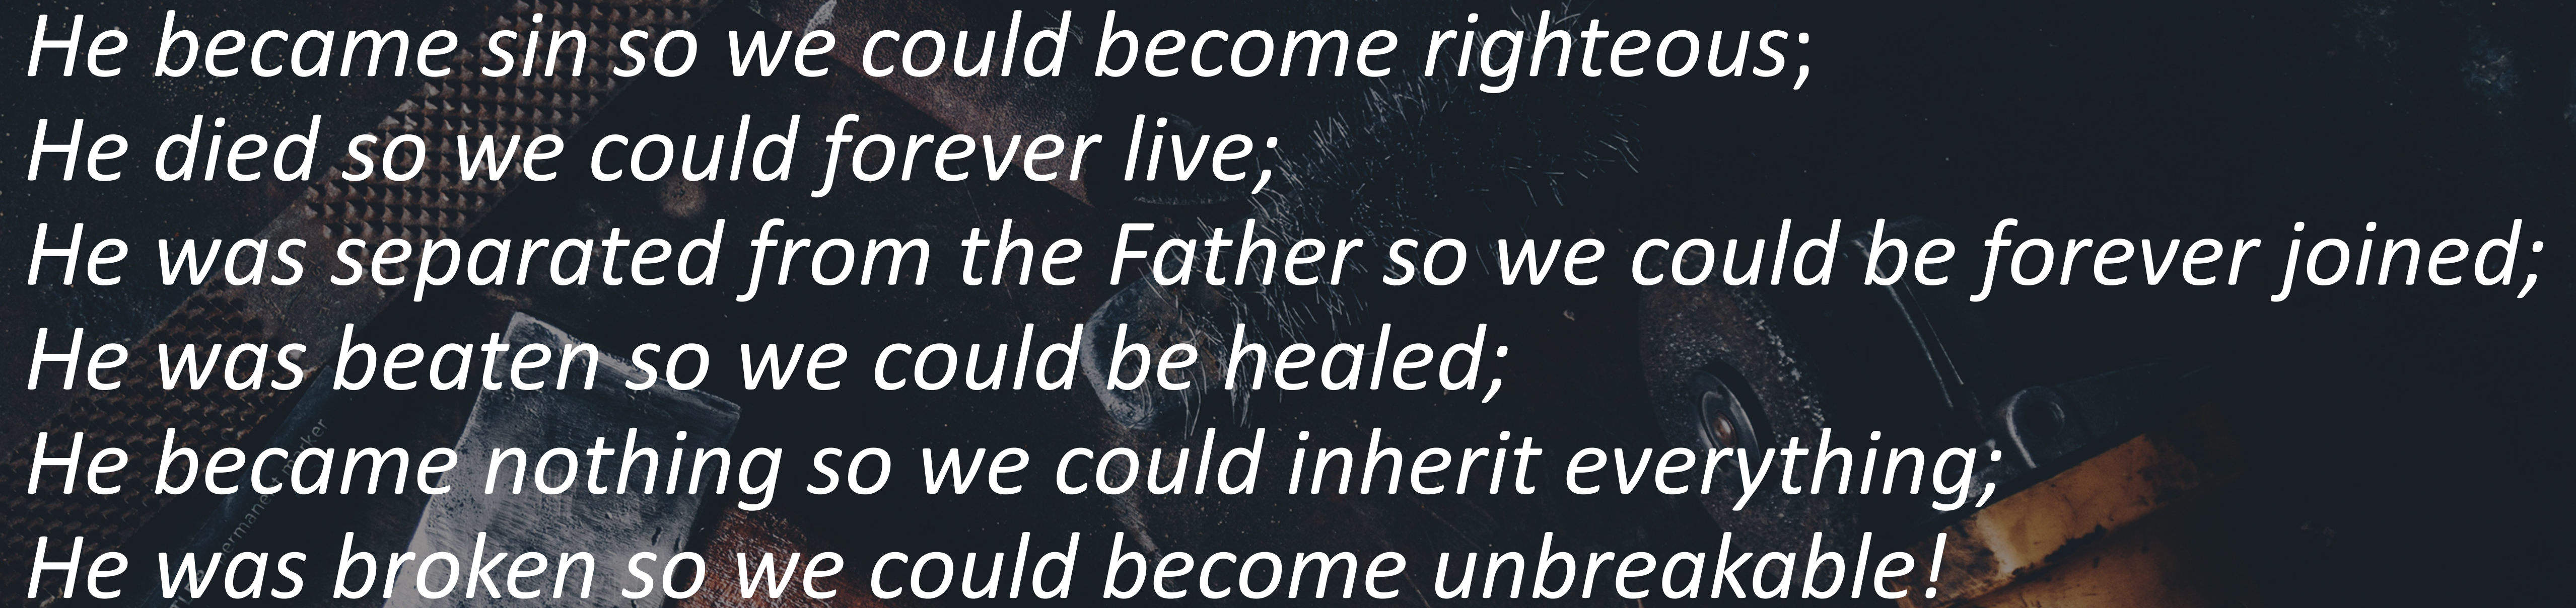

“God said ‘Let us make man in our image’...So God created man in His own image, in the image of God He created him; male and female He created them. God blessed them and said to them, ‘Be fruitful and increase in number; fill the earth and subdue it. Rule over all the earth.’”

Isaiah 52:14

“Jesus’ appearance was disfigured beyond that of any man and His form marred beyond human likeness.”

REPURPOSE

*He became sin so we could become righteous;
He died so we could forever live;
He was separated from the Father so we could be forever joined;
He was beaten so we could be healed;
He became nothing so we could inherit everything;
He was broken so we could become unbreakable!*

REPURPOSE

A dark, moody photograph of various tools including a hammer, a chisel, and a marker, with text overlaid. The background is a dark, textured surface, possibly a workbench or a piece of wood. The tools are scattered across the frame, with some showing signs of use and wear. The lighting is dramatic, highlighting the textures and colors of the tools against the dark background.

“How do I fill the earth with the image of God?”
